

Abstract of the Invention

The present invention allows a skier to easily transfer a single set of bindings between sets of skis. The invention consists of two mechanisms that are interlocked or otherwise attached, hereinafter called the "ship" and the "dock." The "ship" is a standardized mechanism to which the binding is affixed. The "dock" is a mechanism attached to the ski and adapted to receive and attach to the ship.

3238240_1.DOC